STORY

The Liberation Front's influence is on the rise. Whispers about the most powerful terrorist organization in modern history spread everywhere. In the eye of the storm, you are the investigator tasked with preventing their attacks and, perhaps, stopping them.

What do these anarchists want, and how are they so capable? You need to pierce the minds of your suspects and work your way to the truth, through intimidation, guile or empathy.

To understand their motivations you have to make hard choices about your methods. To what lengths are you willing to go to achieve your goals? All you can do is ask the right questions at the right time – and question yourself if you want to engage in outright war or attempt to get close to them? What if you get too close?
